Can't Guess 'Em by Cheir Clothes

By Clarence L. Cullen.

"Nowadays, when I meet up with one of the down-and-outs at a race track or in a racing town during the racing season, he's got to give me a flash at what he's wearing underneath his outer make-up of bum togs, for it may be the ribbed-silk kind at $50 the suit, and when it comes to kind at $60 the sait, and when it comes to kind at $60 the sait, and when it comes to naking them for what they look like on the outside. I'm from St.-Joe-on-the-Big-Naddy or Jopiln-over-the-Zhoc-Lode, in the commonwealth due east of Kansas," alserved the white-mustached bookmaker sith the full-jeweled snake ring and the beli-shaped tan paddock coat that only touched him around the collar-bone. "Clothes may make the man, but they den't make the racing man so's you could notice it. Any time that you fall into that trance-like state where you'll try to make a mental size-up of the heft of a horse-owner's bank wad by the kind of habiliments he's wearing, you want to get someony to snap you awake before you tall for a glided brick or the pea that's under the other shell.

"Bearing on and appertaining to the what-for of this grisly incredulity of mine. I'll silp you a little piece of the an-

"A day or so after the Alexander island gates were flung open, I was sitting at an slowe table in a Pennsylvania avenue sudscrium with a bunch of the faithful, including some of the price-kiters of the stable when a piece of driftwood who leeked like an East St. Louis hobe wafted in. But he had that equine stockplere about him, and as soon as I got the off lamp on him I knew that he followed em in some old kind of a way—I can pipe a victim of the geogee bug trelve miles off through the smoke of a prainte fire or the haze of Indian summer. He slunk over to the table that we were making rings on with the heels of the steins leaned on it with both hands, and looked us over, out of wistful wings, one by one. Then he opened up out busted seams, although he didn't look like curling up under the stewing.

"Well, they're nifty nags, all right,' he persisted, 'and one of 'em's got a bolo edge on him, at that. He shinned three-quarters in twenty-four flat a couple o' days ago, over yonder at Iron Hill.

"The gang around the table looked at him to see if he was kidding, but it was plain that he wasn't.

"Twenty-four flat over a six-furlong route,' grunted one of the bookles. Pal, there's a page or two absent from your dream-book. Where did you smoke the fantasy that you could win down here with a barnacle that does well when he gets over three-quarters in that time? Are you just trying to slip us a green licket for the booby hatch, or don't you know that the Alexander Island sheds are full of mollusks that can traipse that distance, at work, in fifteen flat or better?"

"Well, I've got a chance, anyhow, stuck out the man with the all-in shoes, 'Do I spring the thirty to get 'em out o' hock?"

"The gang at the table stopped looking hock?"

"The gang at the table stopped looking at him then, and the man with the brace of outlaw zebras, seeing that it wasn't suy sort of use, dug his hands into his knobby Pymouth Rock pants, hunched his shoulders forward gloomily, and shambled out.

"Two atternoons later I caught a peek

"What are you laying me?" he asked the layer at the head of the line.
"The Bookle smiled sadly. He had be-come used to the sight of the hard-lucker, and he, too, felt sorry around the collar-band for him, like I did.
"Pal," said the layer, 'you can scrawl your own ticket."

We have to think, and think deeply. We re always looking shead, as it were, trying to see what the future has in stere for us. The public has a very erroneous and superficial idea of our duties and responsibilities. There is a theory that we have little or nothing to do except to settle back and draw dividends. Nothing could be further from the truth. You'd be surprised if I were to take you into my confidence and tell you what was engaging my mind when you broke in on me. It was the automobile.

"Everybody who is worth knowing has an automobile new; the day is coming when thousands of people who are worth knowing will have these smell wagons. And they'll all want to take them with them wherever they so. They'll insist on having us check them as personal baggage, just as tranks are checked, and there'll be the same hue and cry that was raised over the transportation of bicycles a few years ago. This means additional expense in the shape of a struggle with the Legislatures. There are several Legislatures cantered around that we don't own; at least, we haven't a clear life to them, and if we carry automobiles we can't carry much of anything else. When it isn't one thing that crops up to annoy us it's snother, and as I said, we have to be far-eighted."

"I hope it'll never leak out that you're roubled in this way," sighed the unpretentious citizen, "because if it did, everybody'd be so sorry that the country'd be tear-stailed and howed down with grief." "I wouldn't have you think that I'd got hen to anything up to that point, but, just out of carrisely, I tralpsed after the gummed owner in his tour of the books. When I saw him slip in $100 in $5 bets en his kt-yl to cop at 100 to 1. I kind o wondered a little bit, that's all; just wondered a little bit, that's all; just wondered a little bit. I began to become quite a few interested in the way that jog of a mile was going to eventuate. I hiked up into the stand to get a flash at it from end to end. When the field string by, the six-year-old gelding looked a notch or two better than he'd ever showed up before, but he didn't have Salvator or Domino lashed to the mast on the looks thing, even at that, if you're taking it first flash of the bunting, and from the springing of the webbing I could see that the six-year-old gelding was under a hydraulic pull, with the boy's toes wilsgiling up around his ears and the horse yelling murder and police for his head.

"The boy was there with the held-outsky thing, and he didn't turn the old camel loose until the top of the stretch was being pawed by five or six of the sooners of the field. Then the boy unloosed about two dozen of the full grozs of wraps that he'd had on the old horse from the drop of the flag, and the gelding began to show them that he'd only been fooling in all of his previous starts.
He made the leader of the parade in eight

"The slouch-owner was Instantly put on the Drussels in the judges' stand, but he was there with that my-horne's-suddenimprovement gag, besides which he still wore that guileless, now-t-wonder-why-this-is look-and he got by with it.

"He didn't gloat any when he shambled behind the pay-off lines and collected his $12,000 chicken feed. He just remarked, in that irritating way to the hookies. Well. I had a chance, didn't I" and took the change they had to hand him humbly enough. Every one of those layers who had to slip the hoboish-looking owner $500 for his $5 would have taken a welching chance and overlaid a million bucks on the proposition that the mutt that had given them the poke was a ringer; but the judges had decreed that the race had to go as it laid, and so there was not not note for them to uncoll caloric conversation.

Nobody around the table appeared to have heard him. Anyhow, they all fell to gazing intently into the bottoms of their glasses, as if trying to tell their fortunes from the beads bubbling hastily to the tops of them. But the man who looked as if he'd been ditched by Destiny dibt appear to be chagrined over the prevalve silence.

They did it either of 'era skild into any part of the one-two-three greens over there, and daying up for their feed bills and enuance fees, they put me on the rocks and a high sea a-running. I want to poke 'em late a sprint or two yonder at Alexander Maryland—tied up for a $30 feed bill that I couldn't skate to the front for—and there ain't any way that I can get 'em out o' the eaves till that thirty is dug. Now, yet people are sports, and so'm I. It and the couldn't skate to the front for—and there ain't any way that I can get em out o' the eaves till that thirty is dug. "Oh, that's the answer, hey? said the layer. You're going to put it on the odds-on plug in this sprint, I s'pose?" and the bookle's map were to olly grin again.

"I got a chance,' was all the guileless one said, slouching away.

"I went to the rail and took a look at his cayuse, the rank outsider in the sprint, ambied to the webbing. He was a sky-year-old geiding, and he looked as if he'd been pulling an ash-wagon for his. He was tired, tucked up, and sad-looking. A boy that the grimy owner had brought from the Maryland desperado track was up on the old geiding. It was a mile miscrable, and the mournful looking old horse came clomping in twelve in the field of twelve. I saw his owner in the paddeck after the race, superintending the rubbing down of the world-weary gelding. The owner looked as if he didn't see much ahead of him, anywhere.

"The old geiding had to go again the next day in the fourth race, with a field of crack outlaw canines, and this time the slate makers opened him up at 40 to 1 and no one falling for it.

"When I saw the gummy owner shambling around the ring and tossing down two-buck bets here and there on his mildewed mutt I felt sorry for him—It looked like the slow music pathos of the ge-ge-game to me. The lawyers smiled commiseratingly upon me. His plees of Parmesan finished ninth in the field of nine, beaten off as far as from here to Capt 8t, Lucus.

"Say, matey, why don't you flag it and went away? sympathetically inquired one of the bookmakers of the seedy owner. What's the use of tossing your little gift, and no rebate?

"I got a chance, pig-headedly replied the down-and-outer, and off he slunk.

"He got his other one out the next day—the one that had done that amazing work of three-quarters in twenty-four flat—and, with 50 to 1 against the Edam, the kl-ył brought up the rear, going like a steam-roller on a cobbled streat.

"After each of his gobs of animated glue had been in about half a dozen dashes, both of 'em always finishing i him.

"On the fourteenth day of the meeting he had the sky-year-old golding in with the picked lift of milers at Alexander Island, and again I happened to be near the squnched owner when he went around as usual sticking down little bets on his horse. He seemed to be better heeled than usual that day, for he had a mittful of fives with him.

NO EXCELLENCE WITHOUT LABOR IN THE FIELD OF MEDICAL SCIENCE

How I Prepared for My Professional Career, the Result Which Enables Me to Cure the Diseases I Make a Specialty When Others Fail to Even Benefit, and the Manner in Which I Deal With My Patients.

The success I make in treating Blood Poison, Skin Diseases, Stricture, Varicoccie, Hydroccie, Nervous and Sexua Decline. Plies, Fistula, Rupture and diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Postate, which are Pelvic Diseases proper and the only ones I accept for treatment, having made a study of them all my professional life, is best shown to the many sufferers who employ my services and receive a cure. It was my ambition to become a specialist from the beginning of my study of medicine, and early realizing that Pelvic and Private diseases are the most destructive to mankind and that their successful treatment requires skill that few physicians are disposed to spend the time, labor and money necessary to obtain, I considered that the specialty practice of Pelvic and Private diseases of men is an open field from which a great hervest of financial remaneration and professional prominence could be gathered. In limiting my studies to the diseases that now constitute my specialty it was evident that I should strive to first become an expert diagnostician, thereby enabling me in accepting a case to determine the exact cause, development and complications which must always be thoroughly understood by a physician if he succeeds in curing any disease. To familiarize myself as I have with the diseases I treat was a most difficult task, but to experiment and formulate a system of treatment for each of them that could be absolutely relied upon seemed almost impossible, though knowing full well that nothing of proven value is accomplished without toll and perseverance, I pursued my course, which resulted in the unequaled success I have made. The methods I use are no longer experiments, and have been perfected and proven an absolute cure. Therefore, when I accept a case for treatment of know just how I will cure it, and can afford to give the patient a written guarantee to do so, or return the amount of money he pays me; and to insure the many skeptical men who come to me to be cured against loss of their money in dealing with m

RUPTURE Properly termed Hernia, is an affection in the region of the Pelvic System, and is an escape or protrusion of the bowel from the lower part of the abdominal cavity. The tendoncy of Rupture is always progressive, and the symptoms are usually so slight as not to warn the afflicted, even though he be in imminent danger. Rupture frequently results in strangulation and death, Trusses should not be worn continuously, as they only aggravate the trouble.

es should not be worn continuously, as the trouble. It have a sure safe method of curing Rupture. Besides being absolutely reliable, it is painless and harmless. It makes no difference how many times you have been treated, I can cure you, and will guarantee entire satisfaction or refund money.

INDROCELE

Is an accumulation of serous fluid in the scrotum, or ong, and involves the chords to which the testicles are suspended and deprive the occurs organs of all vitality. It results from injury and its sometimes difficult to distinguish from Rupture or Variancele.

The remedy I use for curing Hydrocele completely obliterates the tumor at once, and by the use of a preparation for a few days not a sign or symptom of the disease ever responsar.

VARICOCELE

Is a Pelvic disease, and is simply veins surrounding the spermatic cord filled with cardied or stag nant blood similar to varicose veins occurring in any other part of the body. This overflow and electred accumulation is caused by undue excitement and weakness of the sympathetic or ganglionic nerves that regulate the supply of blood in any organism.

Every man afflicted with Varicocele of long standing knows that it has blighted his life, and that he has made a great mistake in not having himself cured. The disease not only endangers, by compilication, every organ in the same region, but by sympathetic irritation destroys the nervous system and renders a man a complete wreck physically, mentally and sexually.

There is no operation about my radical cure for Varicocele, neither any pain nor detention from business. My procedure consists of absorption, by which means the stagnant blood is transuded into the cellular issue and finally ejected in the pame manner as all other waste matter is thrown off. The ganglionic nerves are restored to their functional force by administration of a tonic, and a complete cure is possible in every case.

BLADDER TROUBLE

The neck of the bladder is oftener affected and becomes catarrhal, discharging mucous, blood, and, weakened by inflammation, the flow of urine is either cut off or unlimited, allowing dribbling, as well as painful symptoms.

By my modern method of illuminating the bladder I have no crouble in discovering the nature of the disease, and by directly and scientifically medicating the affected region I accomplish remarkably quick and permanent cures.

ENLARGED PROSTATE

Results from inflammation caused by irritation, obstructing-the urinary canal and rectal passage, producing painful urina-tion and chronic constipation. My specific treatment removes the inflammation, reduces the enlargement, a normal condition is resumed, and 90 per cent of the cases I treat are perma-nently cured.

BLOOD POISON Properly termed Syphilis, and familiarly known as "pox," is a disease that infects the blood. It is both hereditary and contagious; the former may appear at birth or any time thereafter, the latter manifested by stages known as primary, secondary and tertiary. It is needless to explain to its victim the course of this disease, as he realizes from its monstrous grasp more than sould ever be told. Such evidence as ulcers of the mucous membrane in the mouth and throat, sores on all parts of the blood, aching of the bones, spots and all discolorations of the skin signify decay and premature death.

My treatment for Blood Poison is a Specific Serum that completely reorganizes the blood corpuscies, by which means every particle of infectious matter is eliminated. This remedy for syphilis is the result of many years of experimentation, and has been thoroughly tested in the most severe cases, and has never failed to eliminate the disease so that a sign never reappears. Under my system of treatment it is utterly impossible for poison to remain in the blood, and purity and health are the result in every case.

STRICTURE

Of the urethra is a very annoying disease of its harmful effects to the entire genito-urinary system. The most common forms of stricture are organic, spasmodic and congestive, which variation accounts for the failure of about 90 per cent of those who claim to cure Stricture.

I treat each case separately, first satisfying myself as to the exact condition by careful examination and inquiry. Stricture in any stage and form is not difficult to cure and by my method of irrigation and digestion I am able to cure the most severe cases. I do not cut or dilate with bougies, and when I have dismissed a case the canal is sound and healthy and perfectly natural.

NERVOUS AND SEXUAL DECLINE

The nerve centers and nerves supply and contribute all the force and activity that the great human structure or any part thereof possesses. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of force, and a tendency to decay of any of the great centers of motion distribute disease to the nerve flaments in that region, and an organic disease is bound to result. All nervous and sevual diseases impair the general health, therefore they should have immediate attention and be treated by a competent physician.

In treating Pelvie diseases, from which nearly all nervous and sexual disorders originate. I have particular advantage over other physicians, because I have a thorough knowledge of the seat and cause of the disease, which is always necessary to insure success in treating any affliction. Day Draina, Night Emissions, discharge too quick, head and backache, nervousness, despondency, easily exhausted and comy other similar symptoms, are dangerous, and quickly cured by my method.

KIDNEY COMPLAINTS

Kidney diseases affect a large number cithough many are in gnorance of their trouble and attribute their unwell condition to some other cause. Male excesses, alcohold liquors, severe sickness, which weakens the kidneys, often produce kidney diseases, and the usual symptoms are, highly colored urine, with strong odor, sedimont in urine, frequent urination, or irregular, chilly and feverish spells, wornout facility ness under the eyes or swellings.

My long study and extensive practice in the treatment of all forms of Kidney Diseases have familiarized me to the extent that I have attained skill which insures successful treatment in all cases that are not incurable. I determine the condition of the kidneys by a scientific analysis of the urine, and many severe kidney troubles I have cured by my systematic course of treatment, after being given up as incurable by other physicians, gives me such confidence in my methods as to assure every case I accept a permanent cure.
